President Whalen addresses Ithaca College Student Government on the "state of the college."

Wendy Wright/Student

Whalen Gives Address To Student Government

by Brian Walsh

On Tuesday evening, February 21, Ithaca College President James J. Whalen addressed the members of Student Government at their weekly meeting in the Union Dining Hall.

Whalen's "state of the college" address reviewed current enrollment, financial status and other issues including tuition. Following his speech, Whalen took questions from members of the audience. The questions covered such issues as the proposed add/drop change and housing problems. Throughout the evening, Whalen emphasized that Ithaca College is presently in a very healthy state in several respects.

It is only now that Ithaca College and other schools are beginning to see a downturn in the number of 18 to 24 year olds applying for college. That number of 18 to 24 year olds was climbing for some years, then flattened out. This past year however, it has begun to drop, Whalen said. By 1995, a 23 percent reduction is predicted in that same age group. Moreover, that number is even worse in the Northeast, where there is a 40 percent reduction expected. New York State will be one of the hardest hit. By 1995, New York will probably see a 43 percent decrease. Whalen added that "We will probably have variations that will mitigate that impact, but what we are looking at is declining numbers."

Yet, despite such grim figures, Ithaca College is presenting experiencing one of its best years for students applying for admissions.

"We are doing very, very well," Whalen said. "We have more applications this year right now than we had last year when we completed the entire cycle." According to Whalen, the college is running about 20 percent ahead of last year.

The result of such a demand is a fine applicant pool. Ithaca College will have a very attractive group of students to select from if the pool of applicants remains at current levels, Whalen said.

However, such high numbers of applicants raises concerns from students about overcrowding. This past year proved to be a perfect example with students in lounges and hotels. That problem was primarily a result of the higher yield of students who decided to go to Ithaca College once they were accepted. Whalen added that last year we took fewer students and offered admission to fewer students. Normally, 34 percent of the people you offer admissions to accept. However, last year that number increased to 38 percent or about 125 students.

"This year we're turning the dials down and accepting a smaller freshman class," Whalen said. Over the next few years the number of admissions offered will drop. In the next five years, Ithaca College expects to come down 500 students. "It will be us doing that rather than letting it happen," Whalen added.

Not only are applications going well, but the present financial condition of the college has never been in a better position than it is today. According to Whalen, the financial position has improved every year in the last decade. Moreover, Ithaca College has been running in the black for twenty-five years. Resources and endowments have been growing.

Under the campaign "The Fund for Ithaca", Ithaca College is looking for 20 million dollars over the next 8 years. The money will go for student scholarships. Whalen added that with the 200 billion dollar deficit facing the nation it is unlikely that there will be much

Macke Food Service Works with S.A.B. to Present Winter Carnival

by Barbara Richard

This year Macke Corporation, the food service on campus, joined forces with the Student Activities Board to boost the Winter Carnival. According to Lisa Nelson, chairperson of the Recreation Committee for SAB, "We originally approached Macke about an event. They were very enthusiastic and decided to help us advertise." With the help of Macke, SAB hoped to get more campus participation throughout the carnival with the Olympic theme.

Very little had been done in the past with Macke to promote the Winter festivities. Monte Boyer, Assistant Food Service Director of Macke, helped with advertising and decided to incorporate the activities with scheduled pacesetters. "The whole event was enjoyable and took a lot of work," commented Boyer. He plans on making it a regularly scheduled affair. "It went okay but next year we would like to have a full blown pacesetter in the middle of the week."

Some of the events at the dining halls this far have been the opening ceremonies, olympic heroes, souper sunday, bread table, picnic lunch and gold medal greens.

Probably everyone's favorite event will occur today with Sundaes on Thursday. There will be four choices of ice cream, hot fudge, chocolate syrup, strawberries, butterscotch syrup, sprinkles, chocolate chips, chopped nuts and whipped cream. Friday will feature "Dieter's Downfall," a combination of cold and baked desserts. The "Breakfast of Champions" will be held in the Union Dining Hall

Saturday morning between 8:00am-9:30am. The menu will include scrambled eggs, waffles, poached eggs, toast, ham carved to order and cream of wheat cereal.

Unfortunately Lisa Nelson reported that there was still little participation as far as the games aspect of the carnival was concerned. But SAB will definitely welcome all the help Macke can offer. Both Macke and SAB also praised Reggie for all the artwork done around campus.

February 29th: A Day to T.H.I.N.K.

by Dian Dulberger

Wednesday, February 29th has been designated T.H.I.N.K. Day at Ithaca College. T.H.I.N.K. Day is a day To Heighten Individual Nuclear Knowledge. A group of students who call themselves the T.H.I.N.K. Day task force are organizing the event.

The day's events will include presentations on both sides of the nuclear issue. The students are working in the hope that this day will help people form opinions; whether conservative or liberal. The task force does not advocate either point of view, just an awareness of the problem.

T.H.I.N.K. Day is sponsored by the Student Government in cooperation with the College Republicans and another nuclear awareness group, S.T.A.N.D. (Students and Teachers Aligned For Nuclear Disarmament).

Mane Hopper, Chairperson of the Task Force said the idea originated at Colgate University and therefore Ithaca College is participating in conjunction with Colgate. Both schools will be advertising the events simultaneously to make students aware that the program is taking place elsewhere.

Scheduled events include information tables in the Union from 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m., an open lunch hour from 11:00 a.m. - 1:00 p.m., with an open forum of teachers and students to ask questions, and three speakers at 8:00 p.m., expressing different viewpoints on the issue. Any good ideas on resolving the issue might possibly be sent to the Capitol.

Hopper says she wants to make Wednesday, February 29th a "once in a lifetime" experience and make it worthwhile.

"It's basically to get people to form an opinion and to take time to T.H.I.N.K. about it."

Malcom X, above, and Dr. Martin Luther King were two among many who became apart of the Culture Awareness movement in the mid-1960's.

Afro-Latin Society Marks February's Black History Month

by Caryn Bowers

The Ithaca College Afro-Latin Society joins with other Black student unions and worshipers all over the United States in the tradition of "Black History Month."

This annual event, which initially occurred for only a week, originated in the early 1940's when Carter J. Woodson (now known as The Father of Black History) and others of his culture drew attention to the need for awareness of Black history. They felt that high school students, especially those with a Black background, were being deprived of an education inclusive of Black History. They also gave response to their dissent that historical contributions to Black people were lacking in text books.

Dr. Martin Luther King and Malcom X were two among many who became a part of the Culture Awareness movement in the mid-1960's. Both were instrumental in its progressive growth to the present month's duration. The desire to integrate Black studies into the high school curriculum, and to involve the society in general, was expressed through publications in major Black newspapers and radio talk shows, basically serving as an educational source.

Throughout the month of February, the Afro-Latin Society has been striving to inform the college community of their concern, and the importance of Black history through various types of media. Aside from an informative bulletin board and a display case located in Egbert Union, A.L.S. has provided programs on subjects such as stereotyping of Blacks, guest speakers, and an up-coming film entitled "From These Roots". The film is scheduled to be shown on February 29th at 7:30 pm.

Campus housing procedures

Next Wednesday, February 29th, Garden and Hudson Heights applications will be available at the Office of Residential Life. Those on campus students who wish to live in one of these two areas must be aware of the following application procedures:

1. Your $200 advance deposit must be paid to the Bursar's office no later than March 15, 1984.

2. If you currently live in Hudson Heights, you must reapply for an apartment; "Squatter's Right's" will apply.

3. There will be no "Squatter's Right's" in the Garden Apartments. All current residents must reapply.

4. Garden Apartment resident selection will be based on class seniority and lottery number. The best lottery number within each student combination group will be the basis for eligibility.

GARDEN AND HUDSON HEIGHT APARTMENTS APPLICATION PROCEDURES

Any student desiring to live in a Garden or Hudson Height apartment must be aware of the following:

a. You must obtain an apartment application NO EARLIER than Wednesday, February 29th, at the Office of Residential Life.

b. Each applicant will receive a lottery number next week through intercampus mail.

* NEW *

c. Priority will be given according to combined eligibility points of the applicant group.

Eligibility points are assigned by class standing. The class standing will be determined by earned and accepted academic credits.

1. Senior, Fall '84 = 4 points
2. Jr. PT and 3-2 Engineering, Fall '84 = 3 points
3. Junior, Fall '84 = 2 points
4. Sophomore, Fall '84 = 1 point

For example: 4 Seniors = 16 points; 3 Seniors and 1 Junior = 14 points.

d. Applications are due by 5:00 p.m., March 15, 1984 and must be returned to the Office of Residential Life.

e. Combinations granted an apartment will be posted outside the Office of Residential Life by 5:00 p.m. on Tuesday, March 20th.

BRIEFS/LETTERS

Critics point the finger at Coach Ray Rostan

To the Editor

Authority can be beautiful. When used correctly, it can be a motivating force that can be the difference between a good team and a great team. In the past, Ithaca College has had a good Lacrosse team, but it has never had the right combination of coaching and talent that can produce a great team.

Last year's 9-4 season was disappointing for a team that was loaded with talent (3 All-Americans and 6 players first team ICAC). We suffered some frustrating and even some embarrassing defeats. The blame has mostly fallen on the players. Supposedly, we were spending too much time at the Pines instead of on lacrosse.

Finally, this past week the critics started pointing the finger somewhere else. Actually, the players have known the problem for some time, but nobody bothered to ask us. This past weekend, three players quit because they were fed up with dealing with the irrational coaching principles of head coach Ray Rostan. In fact, Rostan is caught up in such an intense egotistical power struggle, that he misinterprets suggestive and innovative ideas from his coaching staff and players as direct threats to his authority. Stories of his incompetence run long and winded, like him. And my anger and frustrations, as evident by this letter, run deep.

My personal complaints, as well as the complaints of my former teammates and veteran soccer players have been heard by a patient Athletic Director. We can only hope now that Mr. Deming realizes the importance of his decisions to the athletes.

As a senior, I was forced with the decision to either conform or quit. My career has come to an abrupt end. But as I prepare for my first spring break in Florida, my lingering thoughts of lacrosse are of the young players, the future of Ithaca Lacrosse. How bright can their futures be if Rostan remains head coach? How many more careers must be ruined before something is done??

Cold clinic offers self-help treatment

To the Editor:

Do you have a sore throat? Congested sinuses? A cough that keeps you awake at night? Busy schedule? Tired of waiting for a clinician (Doctor or Physician's Ass't) at the Health Center?

Don't go to the witch doctor on your floor. Go to the Cold Clinic at the Health Center. There you will be able to examine yourself and request medication without waiting for a clinician. In essence, you are treating yourself--which is one of the objectives of the Health Center.

Let's face it. In the real world you will not be running out to see the doctor every time you have a runny nose--unless you are fairly wealthy. And if more students learn to care for themselves, the wait to see a clinician will be shorter.

After talking to the staff, the general consensus seemed to be the following: If you feel that you have a problem, you will not be turned away--even on the weekends. The numbers back up their promise: 119 patients were seen during the last weekend in January and 106 during the first weekend in February. Both days a clinician is at the Health Center from 10am to 12 noon to see new admissions and rechecks. In addition, others are on call and available to come in at any time, but only for an emergency. Many student's perception of an emergency is not a true emergency. A stuffy nose does not qualify. Any head injury, abdominal pain, laceration, severe bleeding, burn--what you would go to the Emergency Room for--does qualify.

In conclusion, the staff at the Health Center is ready, willing and able to assist us in our medical needs if our attempts at self-treatment fail. So, break a leg!

Bookstore orders cap and gowns to begin spring graduate's plans

Senior cap and gowns have already been ordered by the college bookstore. To help eliminate the confusion and delays by pre-measurements, the bookstore has already ordered caps and gowns based on the number of graduating seniors. The gowns are manufactured in a variety of sizes to fit graduates of all heights.

In order to eliminate the high cost, pick-up and drop off lines, a keeper cap, gown and tassel have been ordered which seniors keep as a memento.

The cost for the bachelors cap, gown and tassel is 14.93 including tax. Payment is required when you pick up your regalia. You may pick up your regalia at the bookstore beginning Monday, May 7 through Thursday, May 10 from 9:00 am until 7:00 pm; and Saturday

May 12 prior to commencement.

Also, graduation announcements have been ordered and will be on sale at the bookstore starting April 1 through Commencement. If you have any questions regarding academic attire, they should be directed to Mike Bon or Denise Podutalski at the Bookstore.

You Are Invited to a Reception Hosted by UNION COLLEGE

To Discuss Our GRADUATE MANAGEMENT PROGRAMS

Wednesday, March 14, 1:00 am - 2:30 pm
Egbert Union Lobby

A representative of Union College's graduate Institute of Administration and Management (Schenectady, N.Y.) will be on campus to discuss its graduate management programs in PRIVATE SECTOR MANAGEMENT, ACCOUNTING and HEALTH SYSTEMS ADMINISTRATION. Come to the reception, enjoy some refreshments and have a chance in an informal setting, to learn about our unique education opportunities.

Our programs are designed for students with NO PRIOR academic education in the business or accounting field.

We only offer graduate programs, so students do not have to compete with undergraduates for faculty time.

We teach in small classes (average of less than 20 students and a maximum of 40) allowing for maximum faculty-student contact.

We have a number of internships in the Accounting and Health Systems Administration programs which allows students a good mix of academic education and practical experience.

The PRIVATE SECTOR MANAGEMENT program provides strength in the areas of computer information systems, operations management and international management preparing students for positions in a variety of industries, including high-tech companies. The ACCOUNTING program prepares students to enter the field of public accounting, qualifies them to take the C.P.A. examination and allows them to waive one year of the experience requirement. The HEALTH SYSTEMS ADMINISTRATION program prepares students for various management positions in health related fields and is one of the few programs in New York State accredited by the Accrediting Commission for Health Services Administration.

For more information please come to the reception to discuss your questions with a Union College faculty representative.

Macke Announces New Food Service Director

by Lorraine Fanton

The Macke food service at Ithaca College has recently undergone a change in its top management. Roy Rounsville has been appointed Food Service Director for Macke Co. here on campus. Rounsville, who was the acting manager at the Tower Club, replaces Kathy Kemmerer as director.

A graduate of S.U.N.Y. Delhi, Rounsville came to Ithaca College with ten years of diversified college dining experience. That experience came from three campuses: S.U.N.Y. Cortland, S.U.N.Y. Cobleskill, and Syracuse University. At Syracuse University he was in charge of the Carrier Dome concessions.

"I was hired at Ithaca College with no title in mind. I was brought in to learn the 'Macke Way.' But Kathy Kemmerer, the former director left and I was here, so naturally I was asked to take her place," Rounsville said.

Rounsville, who likes to refer to his position as Dining Service Director rather than Food Service Director commented, "Macke is a whole dining experience. We handle more than just the food aspect of the meal. We take care of the dishes, silverware, etc... You don't go to eat at the Terrace Food Hall or the Union Food Hall. You eat at a dining hall."

"The number of management changes has allowed me to structure things more the way I want them, rather than just stepping into my predecessor's shoes."

Eating and sleeping are the only two things that all college students do alike, Rounsville explained.

"Therefore dining and housing are the two most visible services on campus," Rounsville said. "Students shouldn't have to be concerned about their next meal, they should look forward to it, so they can concentrate on what they're here for."

The present dining system, according to Rounsville, has extremely good quality food and production methods are at standard levels. The complaint levels will never be eliminated however, given the style of service, cookery and the institutional dining environment.

"I've traveled all over this country," said Rounsville, "and I've eaten on a lot of college campuses. I've seen the entire spectrum of services and I feel that what Macke provides is very, very good. I've seen better, but I've seen a lot worse."

Rounsville cited several occasions during the short time he's been at Ithaca College

Roy Rounsville, Macke Food Service Director

when a student has commented to him on the fine job Macke is doing in comparison to other schools they have recently eaten at.

Looking back at his years of experience in the food service industry, Rounsville noted the change from the group oriented college student of the 1960's and 1970's. "This trend has given way to a student of the '80's, who is more concerned with individual needs and tastes. The dining service must recognize these changes and alter dining policies accordingly. I feel I know what students are looking for. You have to continue to meet the needs of diners as they continue to come through school."

Provost Smith Resigns Position

Ithaca College Provost Lois C. Smith has resigned her post effective at the end of the 1983-84 academic year, College President James J. Whalen announced.

Smith, who has served as Provost since August 1980, is leaving to pursue other career options, preferably in the midwest where she has family. The college will immediately begin a search to identify her successor.

"In nearly four years at Ithaca College, Lois has made a number of significant contributions to the administration of our academic program through which the entire campus community has benefited," said Whalen.

"The Provost's office will be left strengthened and ready to continue endeavors to further the college's academic mission."

Prior to joining Ithaca College, Smith served as academic dean at Russell Sage College in Troy, N.Y.

Smith received a Bachelor of Arts degree in chemistry from Douglass College, a Master of Arts degree in chemistry from the University of Illinois and PhD in organic chemistry from Rutgers University.

She joined the faculty of Russell Sage College in 1964 as an assistant professor of chemistry and was promoted to associate professor in 1966 and professor of chemistry in 1971. She was named chairman of the chemistry department in 1969, dean of faculty in 1973 and academic dean in 1977.

Whalen Addresses Student Government of an increase in support. Therefore, the college must look to endowment to help make up the difference.

Whalen was questioned whether or not tuition would increase in the future, Whalen said, "It is not a question of whether, but how much." Ithaca College has had an outstanding record in regard to tuition increases. The college has averaged 7 percent increases which is well below inflation and half of other schools.

Tuition increases are inevitable due to increases in utility costs and other expenses. But when tuition is raised, the college tries to put more into financial aid.

In addition to the enrollment and financial condition, Whalen responded to student's concerns on problems students are currently facing. One of those problems is the proposed change in the add/drop period from one week to two. Whalen would not take sides on the issue at this time. Instead, he feels the proposal should be looked at more broadly and discussed more before a decision can be made.

"I see the argument on both sides, but we should make haste slowly," Whalen added. He suggested getting Registrar John Stanton to discuss the problems with the add/drop procedure with the students.

Kim Zygaldo, Director for Development on Student Government asked President Whalen if there were any alternative methods to the housing problems that occurred in the past. Last year housing was a particular problem. Four percent of the students were unpredictable. Next year there probably will not be such overcrowding because of the lower number of students being admitted. However, there will always be a few who have to be put in lounges until everyone finally settles in. The next few years will probably not see overcrowding problems. The future however, may see empty dorm space.

A look into the past... Can you guess which building this is?

Career Planning Exploring Career Options

Are you uncertain about your career plans? Not sure what academic major or occupation you would like to enter? You are not alone. The concept of CAREER PLANNING can be confusing and overwhelming to a student still in the early portion of their college experience. At Ithaca College, students have a unique opportunity to engage in the career planning process through active participation in a Career Exploration Group. This group is co-sponsored by the Office of Career Planning and the Counseling Center.

Career Exploration Groups consist of students meeting for four sessions with professional staff from the Office of Career Planning and Counseling Center. The purpose of the group is to offer students an opportunity to explore themselves and the world of work. The students get concentrated assistance from the counselors and the other students. Group members also get an early start on their occupational direction.

Many students have not yet had the time to see how strengths and weaknesses affect their choices in a career or academic major. The group can help provide the needed guidance.

The particular goals of the Exploration Workshop are twofold:

1. To stress the factors that should be taken into account in the career decision making process.

2. To explain the resources available for gathering information on the world of work.

In order to achieve the workshop goals, the student is directly involved in two in-depth phases. The first phase is self-assessment. The second phase brings identified skills, values, and interests together with the world of work. It is important for students to understand that skills, values and interests are closely connected to career decision making.

Students with a desire to explore career direction and to sharpen the focus upon an academic major or career, should take the time to attend the next series of Career Exploration Workshops. The group will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays March 19, 21, 26, and 28 at 6:30-8:30 in the DeMotte Room, except on March 28, when the group will meet in the Job Room. For more information and to sign-up, visit the Office of Career Planning in the Gannett Center.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER

About that greener grass

Dave Fischer

This is a story about a freshman; a fact in itself that requires no literary recognition for the status is common and the occurrence quite ordinary. As a matter of record I have, over time, come in contact with countless freshmen; all of whom can boast events worthy of causing a side to ache or a heart to pitter-pat. But I reject biographies of all the others in deference to this particular frosh.

Although it is possible to report the complete life of other freshmen, no similar deposition can be made for this one. In my research I have found no materials to confirm circumstance, no evidence to establish sequence, and no witness to substantiate motive. Hence, the following happenstance is not heresay, it is what I have made up.

Once upon a time there lived this freshman. The word 'live', in this context, reveals a certain poetic license because who's kidding who? One does not live in the Towers, one merely survives. To alleviate this distinction for our use, and for the sake of official rhetoric brochure talk, once upon a time there lived this freshman who resided in the Towers.

This Tower room was equipped with more standard conveniences than any graduating high school student could ever imagine: no parents. This mutually consenting absence was only difficult during times of need, fear and laundry. But this freshman's newly-found independence was asserted and symbolized in a bumpersticker reading "Question Authority." The message was firmly affixed to the rear of a brand new car that daddy bought.

That one year was all this freshman spent in the Towers, and on-campus altogether. It was not the people on-campus who forced the move because many friendships were formed to last a lifetime, many to last throughout school and, for one reason or another, many that never lasted through the semester.

The last straw for leaving that built-in mystical view was not dorm damage, high fidelity or lack of clean living. But no, rather this freshman had an obsession to move off-campus, a compulsion to waive all elevator rights, and a fixation to be autonomous. Let it be known to all within earshot that one, and only one reason caused this freshman to move off-campus. Enough was enough and never again did this freshman want to dampen his karma by stepping into a shower and being downpoured by penetrating cold water.

Admittedly, no dispute over the validity of this freshman's complaint is justified. This freshman looked forward to hot showers, fantasized them in advance, only to be excruciatingly disappointed. Action had to be taken to immediately rectify this shamefully overlooked wrongdoing.

Immediate action, however, was out of the question. Hurdles and obstacles were strewn in abundance by parental and institutional red tape. Out of breath, but finally, the escape was successful. Only time stood in the way of a sophomore who was downtown bound.

To make an already long story short, this sophomore foresaw absolutely no hinderances in adjustment to off-campus living. In fact, everything was working out fine until one day, without warning, the house's heat refused to work, the garbage men went on strike, and there was no toilet paper left in the bathroom.

This sophomore became infuriated and, after counting to ten, decided to calm down with something relaxing and invigorating. What this sophomore needed was a cold shower.

The Entertainment Guide to Ithaca

Huey Lewis returns to Ithaca to play Ben Light Gymnasium

Performing at Ithaca College will have a special meaning to Huey Lewis. His first "gig" was with a band called Slippery Elm on State St. in Ithaca New York.

Huey spent two years at Cornell University before he decided to pursue a career in music. Because he has a sentimental attachment to Ithaca, Huey decided to take some time out from his large scale concerts to appear at I.C.. Huey and his band have been touring along with 38 Special. They've been playing in such concert arenas as the Philadelphia Spectrum.

Huey is really excited about coming back to Ithaca and performing in the town where he began. Don't miss Huey Lewis and the News on February 26 at 8:00 in the Ben Light Gym at Ithaca College.

In 1980 Huey Lewis first made news when he formed the hardrocking Bay Area group Huey Lewis and the News. Their self-tilted debut album established them as critics' favorites with a witty assemblage of bluesy rock tunes recorded over three weeks in two or three takes. Some of them, like "Some of My Lies are True (Sooner or Later)" and "Who Cares" received a great deal of radio play.

With 1982's Picture This, Huey and cohorts became bigger News. The album's smoother production made the band's street-level humor and straightforward rock more accessible to the masses, and the masses responded; the album went to number 13 on the Billboard chart, and the LP netted three top forty singles: "Do You Believe in Love" (which went to number 7), "Hope you Love Me Like You Say You Do," and "Workin' For A Livin'," which became an AOR staple.

It's been over a year and a half since Picture This made Huey Lewis and the News a household name. And now they're back in the News with Sports. The album contains six originals: "The Heart of Rock and Roll," "Bad is Bad," "I Want a New Drug," "Finally Found A Home," "If This Is It," and "You Crack me Up," and three covers, "Heart And Soul," "Walking on a Thin Line" (a paen to Vietnam vets written by two friends of Huey's, Andre Pesis and Kevin Wells), and Hank Williams, "Honky Tonk Blues." Sports is another winning testament to that special blend of energy and expertise, inspiration and perspiration, humor and insight, hooks and heart, that is Huey Lewis and the News.

"We feel great about this record," says Huey from his Marin County home. "We've always been a good live band, and now I think we're becoming a good studio band. We worked hard on this one—but we also had a lot of fun."

Hard work and fun have always been what Huey Lewis and the News are all about. After graduating high school, Huey bummed around Europe for several years with his knapsack and harmonica. Huey recalls, "With my long hair, the harm seemed to fit the image. I didn't know how to play it, but I taught myself while waiting for rides beside European highways. I'd just imagine I was Paul Butterfield. After a year of that I was pretty good." Returning home to Marin County, Huey joined the critics favorite country-rock band, Clover. They went to England in the late 1970's, and Clover's rootsy, funky sound fit in perfectly. After Clover's demise, Huey returned to the Bay area, and once again see Huey on page 12

The Breaks Are For You

by Mary Ann Gillot

You've heard of break dancing, well, now be prepared for "Break" music. Break music is what you'd call a combination of all types of sounds which are mixed together and funneled out to become a totally new brand of sound. This past January marked the one year anniversary that the band, The Breaks, have been together. Since their early days of origination in the basement of the East Tower, The Breaks are quickly "breaking" in their image as one of the more popular local performers.

Since last April when the band made its debut at the I.C. pub, The Breaks have been trekking through town and testing their creativity on crowds in Kelly's Drydock, the Nines and Captain Joes. The group opened up for a Syracuse band named The Works, in Cortland, and has been headstrong in its efforts to become recognized and admired as an original established band. The band managed to book almost 30 shows throughout the past year. They remained in the Ithaca area over the summer and took a couple of months off towards the end to write a number of original songs.

Singer/drummer John Sharples acknowledges their recent success. "We just hit one year that we've been together and all of a sudden something clicked." He believes that the group has matured a great deal, and he is confident about their future.

The Breaks are thinking about cutting a single and have strong aspirations of sticking around this summer too.

Piano player and guitarist, Matt Keating along with singer/guitarist, Mike Culhane is the creative force behind the group. Combining their astute knowledge of music, they have the uncanny skill of producing some pretty explosive tunes. What sets The Breaks into a niche that's different from a lot of other local groups is that they do 75 percent of their own material. They have composed close to 200 originals and have a 60 song repertoire.

The other member of this fantastic foursome is bass/guitar player Mike Tinus. He is the most recent member to join The Breaks, who used to play as a trio off and on during 1980. With the addition of Tinus, The Breaks were able to pull the act together. John Sharples considers Mike Tinus the best musician in the band. Tinus is serious about his musical career and is also a member of a Syracuse band.

Although they deal mostly with originals, they do play some cover songs, but nothing you'd recognize as being recent because they have little interest in contemporary songs. They basically focus on old rock-and-roll tunes from the 50's, 60's, and early 70's. Some rock-a-billy and Motown sounds along with Monkee melodies are sprinkled in their sets to diversify their image. see Break page 12 began assembling local out-of-work musician friends into a cohesive unit. A Monday night jam session at local club Uncle Charles, was instituted, and here the nucleus of the News was formed: ex-Clover keyboardist Sean Hopper; guitarist Chris Hayes; and three members of another local band Soundhole, Johnny Colla (guitar and sax), bassist Mario Cipollina (brother of Quicksilver's John), and drummer Bill Gibson.

"We were offered some free studio time after the word-of-mouth on the Monday night jams got out, so we cut this Cisco take-off on 'Exodus,' 'Exo-disco' Huey explains. "I sent that to this guy I knew from England, and the next thing I knew, we had a singles deal with Phonogram. With the advance, we recorded three tunes we had written and that demo attracted our manager Bob Brown, and eventually Chrysalis Records."

Commenting on Sports, Huey says, "It's like all of our records, I hope, in the sense that it's honest and original. It's just us. We've always managed to be a self-contained outfit—we produce our own records, do covers our way, help direct our own videos...and it seems to be working, which is great."

Music and Dancing with the Breaks

The Breaks' sound is distinctive, and Sharples claims it is constantly changing. Rhythm is the most important aspect to the band's performances and everything they produce is oriented towards dancing. Sharples described their style as being "a late Beatish-type sound but being a little more funky. We've got Michael Jackson-type rhythm with a country swing." He confirms that early Talking Heads and Squeeze have strongly influenced their style. Each member has a different perspective about how a song should sound, and Sharples admits that practice sessions do get a little heated at times. If that sounds like dissension, I wouldn't bet on it. Once everyone's views are incorporated into their playing, a unique sound is established.

The image The Breaks want to project is that their music has more to it than just sound. Sharples grants that dancing is a major priority but their songs are not simply music. The Breaks emphasize the importance of words. Through strange arrangements and compositions their creations result in music to think about. Sharples sums it up by saying "It's not just mindless (sounds), or empty fun. We have something to say."

The Breaks are very dedicated to their music. They don't thrive on extensive, fancy stage shows. They prefer to keep it simple. Now synthesizers, no effects. They perform short, quick songs that move right to the point. When on stage, they don dark clothes and sneakers; nothing too trendy. The Breaks encourage audience participation. Several times they add a touch of percussion to their sounds when Rose Tishelman, an I.C. graduate, joins the band for a gig. Contrary to their name, the band doesn't take long breaks between sets. Usually they will squeeze in some 22 songs into each set.

The Breaks will be playing at The Haunt on February 27 and are planning to debut nine new songs. You might want to catch the Breaks in action. Experience a little bit of change in life—that's the Breaks.

Ladies finish 13-8 Enter State Tourney

by Debbie DiMaggio

The Ithaca College womens basketball team completed their regular season with a 13-8 overall record. Coach Natalie Smiths Lady Bombers will enter State Tournament Action this Friday as they face Stonybrook in the first round of the tourney hosted by Manhattenville College.

IC has captured four of their last five games on their way to being ranked seventh in the state.

Basketball power St. Lawrence was knocked for a loop as IC delivered a 73-70 loss to the Saints. Junior Tracy Olson recorded a career high, 29 points. Jeanne Johnston had 15 while freshman Mary Colton contributed 11 points.

"It was a really tough game and the crowd was really on their side. We simply rose to the occasion and played right down to the wire. I'm really proud, we showed a lot of class. Mary Colton came in and did a lot of good things for us. She showed how well she can really play," Smith stated.

Ithaca suffered a tough loss to the nationally ranked University of Rochester, in Rochester last Thursday, 60-54. IC was up by as many as 12 at one point before things fell apart in the second half. "They just outplayed us in the second half," Coach Smith commented.

"A balanced scoring attack and good defense" is how Coach Smith characterized her teams 66-60 victory over Nazareth College.

The Lady Bombers placed five players in double figures with senior co-captain Tuti Scott leading the way with 18 points. Val Gazda followed closely with 15 while Tracy Olson canned 11. Joan McParlin and Jeanne Johnston combined for 20.

Many of the Lady Bombers saw a lot of playing time in IC's 74-43 trouncing of Cortland State. The victory marked the third time this season that IC has defeated the Red Dragons.

"It's always hard to beat a team three times in one season, so we weren't sure. Most of the kids got a lot of playing time; the freshmen did a good job," said Smith.

Johnston earned high scoring honors with 11 points. Gazda, Olson, and McParlin each had 10.

Ithaca is paced by All-American candidate Tracy Olson. Olson, who was named

R.T. French Division III New York State Player of the Week last week, and was named to this week's ECAC Division III honor roll. Olson leads the team in scoring (16.8 ppg) and rebounding (8.7 rpg).

Jeanne Johnston follows in both categories, averaging 11.7 points and 5.9 rebounds a game.

The Lady Bombers will have to win three games, back to back in order to win the State Tournament this weekend. "We're gonna have to play 3 games one right after the other. If we keep our minds and bodies in it we'll be successful. We also have to keep the intensity level up," Smith stated.

Other teams competing in the tournament besides number one ranked U of R and IC will be Stonybrook, New Rochelle, Manhattenville, Hartwick, St. Rose, and Alfred University.

Smith feels "this tournament is very indicative of our power rating in the State. This will determine whether or not we get into NCAA play."

Runners Take 2nd

Ithaca and St. Lawrence exchanged leads throughout the meets middle events. Three freshmen took third places, as Chris Krantz ran the 400 meters in 52.1, Tracy Green ran a 1:08 in the 500 meter and Mark Strake covered 800 meters in 1:59.3. All three performances were good enough to qualify for the state championship meet at the end of the season.

Senior Charlie Colligan took a second place in the 55 meter high hurdles and another senior Mike Egan was second in the 1000 meters, as they timed 8.0 and 2:34.7 respectively. Both runners have started the season slowly, but now seem to be returning to last seasons form.

Freshman Tom Lottermoser continued his fine pole vaulting as he reached 13'6" for a second place.

The two schools were tied in points with five events remaining, but Johnson's faltering in the triple jump enabled the host school to take a commanding lead.

Although the ICAC title was out of reach, the Bombers still had more encouraging performances to come. Sophomore Gerry Goodenough timed 8:43.2 for second place in the 3000 meters, and his sophomore counterpart Jim Quinn placed second in the 5000 meters with a time of 15:21.9.

A big surprise came in the last event, as the one mile relay team of Green, Strake, sophomore Brad Ecker and Krantz broke the school record with a time of 3:32.2 for a third place finish.

The confident Bomber team will travel to Rochester for the McDonagh invitational meet this Saturday at noon.

I.C. Swimmers Finish Second at N.Y. State Championship Meet

by Dorothy Landon

Team spirit and support was the epitome of the Ithaca College Women's Swim Team as they concluded their 1983-84 swimming season at the University of Rochester during the Upper New York State Division III Championships held February 16-18. Approximately 22 Division III schools participated in the competition which resulted in a final score of 631 for the University of Rochester followed by Ithaca College with a score of 559.

"There was tough competition during the three days and even though nearly three people made up a third of our team I feel we all had strong performances," commented junior co-captain Dorsi Reynolds.

Strong all-around performances were shown by Dorsi

Reynolds who placed second in the state in both the 100 yd. fly with a time of 1:01.56 and the 100 yd. free with a time of 54.58 both of which qualified her for Division III Nationals. Reynolds also placed third in both the 50 yd. and 200 yd. freestyle and first in the 50 yd. fly.

Senior Amy Hausherr swam her way to a fourth place victory both in the 100 yd. backstroke and 1 mile freestyle swim and qualified for nationals in both the 100 yd. backstroke and 100 yd. freestyle with respective times of 1:04.2 and 57.89.

Ithaca added depth to its performances by scoring vital points from eighth to sixteenth place. Leading the way was Anne Baxter and Sue Ayers, placing fifth and seventh respectively in the 50 yd. breaststroke. Baxter and Ayers continued to score points for the Bombers in the 100 yd. breaststroke by placing fifth and ninth respectively.

Karen Hurst took sixteenth in her two events; 100 yd. Individual Medley and 200 yd. Individual Medley. Hurst was also an integral part of both the 400 yd. Medley Relay which finished seventh and consisted of swimmers Dorothy Lohnau, Anne Baxter and Claire Beaulieu, and the 800 yd. Freestyle Relay which finished ninth and consisted of swimmers Kathy Comfort, Dorothy Lohnau, and Claire Beaulieu.

Junior Claire Beaulieu also swam well with exceptional performances in both the 200 and 100 yd. butterfly, with times of 2:23.7 and 1:04.2, placing ninth and twelfth respectively.

During the competition, the 200 yd. Freestyle Relay qualified for nationals. The relay consisted of Hausherr, Costello, Ayers and Reynolds.

The Lady Bombers swept the diving competition as Nancy Simson took second in both the 1M and 3M boards, followed by Beth Donovan who placed third on both boards respectively. Beth Hary, Janice Colvin and Mary Beth Harvey also scored points for the Bombers as they placed seventh, ninth, and thirteenth respectively on the 3M board and eighth, eleventh and fifteenth respectively on the 1M board.

Approximately eight swimmers and divers will participate in this year's Division III Nationals to be held at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia during spring break.

Ithaca Skiers Wrap Up Second Successful Season

by Mark Saydah

This past weekend the Ithaca College Ski team wrapped up their second successful season. The skiers traveled to Pico Peak, Vermont where they competed in the Division II Championships.

Fine individual finishers on the women's team by Kim Dion and Karen Stuart and consistent finishes by Paula Kelly, Johanna Wolf, and Lois Schwagerl earned the women an invitation to the Division II Championship at Pico Peak, Vermont, last weekend. Against stiffer competition from New England schools (Harvard, Johnston State) the women skied well. However, a few disastrous falls on a difficult course will keep them from qualifying for Division I Championships.

Accompanying the women's team at Pico Peak was Marc VanGestel (freshman). He was the only member of the men's team to qualify. Marc skied consistently within the top four racers throughout the season.

His season's success has earned Marc an invitation to the Division I Championships, what skiers call the Middlebury Carnival. Next weekend Marc will compete with the best skiers in the country.

Supporting Marc through the season and providing depth for the men's team were Sam DeCamp (Sr), Ed Linsler (Sr), Mark Saydah (Sr), Pete Bradshaw (Fr), Bill Cooperthwait (Fr), and Phil Harvey (Fr).

As the ski team wraps up their second successful season they are pleased with the giant strides they have made. Most members are filled with pride after all the independent work they have done. President, Mark Saydah feels still more needs to be done. Establishing a cross-country team would have boosted the team's overall standings in the division. Next year a young alpine team supported by cross-country hopefuls should send the Ithaca College Ski team schussing to the top of the Division II cast.

ITHACAN SPORTS

Cagers lose to Brockport Playoff hopes look slim as season draws to close

by Ivan Gottesfeld

Often when teams face a must win situation future, they tend to focus all of their attention on that particular game, while letting others in between slip away.

This seemed to be the case at the Ben Light Gym this past Monday night, as the Ithaca College Bombers saw a 9 point lead dwindle away in the 2nd half as they lost to Brockport State 75-69.

The character of the game was similar to many that the Bombers have played this season. Throughout the early stages, Ithaca controlled the tempo, played intense defense, and exhibited a balanced offense, which gave them a 41-35 halftime lead.

The second half started out similar to the first. Senior co-captain Ron Zielinski hit two consecutive buckets in the first minute of play giving the Bombers their biggest lead of the game. The "Z" spark made it appear as though The Bombers were determined not to let this one get away.

As the disappointing crowd began to get "into" the game, so did the Brockport States leading scorer Ed Green. Green, a sophomore from Rochester, N.Y., slowly but surely began taking the game into his own hands. He sparked the Golden Eagles with his perimeter shooting and strong inside game. He scored six of his game high 23 points midway through the half, to give Brockport a lead they would never relinquish. The clincher came when Green made a spectacular dunk over Al Whitney and added a free throw to give Brockport a 67-61 lead late in the game.

Ithaca freshman Jeff Jakob hit a 15 footer to pull The Bombers to within 67-64 but that's as close as I.C. came as Brockport handed them their 8th defeat of the year (15-8).

"I think we were a bit frustrated," said head coach Tom Baker. "It's been a busy couple of weeks both physically and emotionally for us. Tomorrow we'll take the day off and then prepare for Hartwick and Alfred."

The Bombers' non-conference set back marked the home finale for senior co-captains Todd Sibel and Zielinski. Both played strong games at both ends of the floor but were disappointed they couldn't gain a victory in their last game on the Ben Light floor.

"It's very disappointing," said a dejected Sibel, "but this team has a great deal of character, and will definitely bounce back this weekend."

With a remote chance of making the post-season playoffs. The Bombers will have to bounce back as they face nationally ranked Hartwick on Thursday (8pm, 92 ICB-FM) and then the must win game at Alfred on Saturday (8pm, IBB-FM).

To make the playoffs for the third consecutive year, Ithaca must beat Alfred on Saturday and then sit back and hope for Clarkson to beat St. Lawrence next Thursday.

OUT IN THE OPEN: Zielinski hits for two against Brockport

RUNNERS TAKE 2nd

by David Raskin

The Ithaca College mens track team finished a very respectable second in the ICAC indoor championship meet this past Saturday at St. Lawrence University. The Bombers placed ahead of Alfred University and Rochester Poly-Technical Institute, and remained close to St. Lawrence until the final stages of the meet.

When asked about his teams finish in the meet, Bomber coach Mike Donnally replied, "Great! I'm not at all disappointed with second place. This is just about the time of the year when things really start improving." Steady improvement has been the story of this indoor season, which is at its midpoint.

The meet in which the Bombers also placed second last year, started off on the upswing. Freshman Mike Johnson's first place long jump of 22'7½", set a new Ithaca College record. Junior Jim Nichols then followed with a first in the shotput, with a hurl of 48'½". The Bombers had a slim lead after the meets sixth event, as they took first, second and third in the 55 meter dash. Freshman speedster Carlos Adrian timed a 6.5 over the distance, and nipped freshman Jeff Imrie and sophomore John Madera at the tape.

SKATERS WIN 7-6

by Terryl Atlas

The I.C. hockey team returned to their winning ways last week by notching victories against Monroe Community College and Broome Community College. Now with an 8 and 5 record, The Bombers and head coach Ed Rosen have guaranteed Ithaca College hockey their first winning season in three years of organization.

On Saturday, February 11, The Bombers turned back Monroe Community College 7 to 3 at Cass Park. I.C. scoring was led by Doug Sandberg with two goals, and Dave Berkey, Chris Dean and Tom Finn who each scored. The Bombers succeeded with a continuous barrage of shots on the Monroe net and quickness in back checking to help goaltender Mike Ciccolini stop the enemy attack.

On Friday, February 17, The Bombers shocked Broome Community College by scoring in the last minute of the game to win 7 to 6 at Binghamton. Randy Myeroff was a scoring machine by beating the Broome goaltender four times. Three of his four goals were unassisted when Myeroff skated from end to end to put the puck in the net. But Broome Community College afforded 56 shots on the I.C. net, forcing Mike Ciccolini to steer fifty of them aside. The score was tied going into the final minute of play until I.C. forward Christopher Dean scored with only 46 seconds left, leading I.C. to their first winning season.

Ithaca will finish its season this weekend on the road. They will face Hamiltons J.V. on Friday, and SUNY Binghamton on Saturday.
